WODA, CEDA, EADA, WEDA, EuDA and IADC explained

	Logo	Geography	Members	Member segments	Number of members	Objectives
WODA World Organisation of Dredging Associations		World	CEDA, WEDA EADA	N.A.	3
CEDA Central Dredging Association		Europe, Middle East Africa - EMEA	Individuals and organisations from academia, government and private businesses (see next column)	• Academic bodies and educational institutions • Consultancies and research institutes • Designers, builders and suppliers of ancillary equipment • Designers, builders and suppliers of dredging vessels • Dredging companies (private and state-owned) • Government organisations and public works • Media • Port, maritime and navigational authorities • Professional and branch associations, environmental NGOs • Services (e.g. banks, insurers, law firms, financial agencies, towage companies) • Other	130 corporate members 500 individual members from 40 countries	• Independent, no lobbying • Centre of expertise on dredging and reclamation • Forum for knowledge exchange and extensive professional network • Objective, expert input to regulatory bodies
EADA Eastern Dredging Association		Far East and Pacific			Data not available to CEDA
WEDA Western Dredging Association		Americas			Data not available to CEDA
EuDA European Dredging Association		European Union	Private dredging companies	Private dredging companies	14 companies from 7 countries	• Representation of the European dredging companies • Lobbying: interfacing with EU institutions • Objective: fair and equitable conditions for competition
IADC International Association of Dredging Companies		World	Private dredging companies	Private dredging companies	10 companies from 8 countries	• Inform about dredging • Improve business climate • Promotion of the dredging industry • Fair competition • Standards of Professional Conduct